Then came a letter from Congressman Sibley suggesting "a permanent and healthy control of the Associated Press and king : lavenues" and dated "House of Representative , March 7, 1905":

My DEAR MR. A .: The illness of a member of my family has prevented my coming to New York. Senator B. was to have gone over with me. I think he will go, anyway, as he has business there. I had a conversa-tion with an important "official" yesterday and he told me there was but one thing to de and that was to start a "back fire." La "c myself, he is much slarmed, and as a mem-ber of the reigning family his hand and ongue are tied. He thinks the work should be done in the education of public sentiment between now and the meeting of Congress in October. It has, I think, been decided to nvene Congress in extra session at that it, though the Speaker will try to have it over until November, if he can't do bet-

Long (Senator) and Curtis (Representa tive) are the strong men in the Kansas delegation. I have explained matters to nem and I think their influence will count ome when they go home. Campbell is a ever hoy: has no strong points yet deeloped. He seeks notoriety, but is harm-ciss in himself. This agitation, in the anguage of the "official," "started from the top" and will run its course. It is not a deep seated, profound conviction of wrong. The one thing is to get delay until temperate action can be secured. I'think the pen-dulum will swing to the other side after a while, but I do not want the devil to pay before it gets back. An efficient literary bureau is needed, not for a day or a crisis, but a permanent and healthy control of the Associated Press and kindred avenues. It will cost money but will be the cheapest in the end, and can be made self supporting. The next four be made self supporting. The next four jears is, more than any previous epoch, to determine the future of the country. No man values public opinion or fears it so much as Roosevelt. No man seeks popularity so much as he. The longest of all the letters is a suggestion by Mr. Grasty to Mr. Archbold that it would be a good thing if Mr. Morgau could be "peacefully and quietly supplanted as the most conspicuous sentative of financial power." The letter

Now, while it is expedient under existing conditions to do all that we can to turn the tide of anti-Morgan sentiment, nevertheless, want to say to you that I think it would be a good thing if Mr. Morgan could be peacefully and quietly supplanted as the most

Unless you have devoted more time than so busy a man is likely to be able to spare for such a purpose, to that great man's loss of the public's confidence, you can scarcely realize how much harm has been done by his "undoing" or by what people consider the exposure of his methods. But what-ever we may call it, the effect of the discredit which has befallen him has been to make the public believe—or at least to take seriously sensational stories concocted for demo were considered as unfounded and un worthy of credence. A number of my friends—men of sanity and feelers of the public pulse—have earnestly expostulated against the course we have taken in Mr. M.'s defends, saying with singular unani-mity, "He doesn't deserve it and will not

I am telling you all this because I hore-I am telling you all this because I hon-estly believe that interests of such im-measurable magnitude as Mr. Morgan is supposed to dominate ought to be under the control of wiser men—men with sense enough to see and avoid such palpable pitfalls as surrounded the shipbuilding

A substitution of controlling powerhange of generals seems to me the only way to escape the consequence of and head off public distrust of our great organizations and to stop the supply of fresh ammunition to the "trust busters."

Now, among the latter I put Theodore Roosevelt and W. R. Hearst in the same category—and Hearst to-day has an or-ganization of immense efficiency, made up tiable to be the Democratic nominee for the Presidency. That Roosevelt will be the Republican nominee is a foregone con-clusion. Now in times of depression the opinion it is probable—people who stand for the maintenance of American institutions and for "the greatest good to the greatest number" ought to be arranging to prevent the possibility of such a disaster as Pearst's election to the Presidency. Yours truly, THOMAS P. GRASTY.

Mr. Hearst closed by saying: The disaster of Hearst's election to the Presidency in 1904 was providentially averted by the Standard Oil Company, and Mr. Parker received their approval.

on Buclow Resigns to save His Master's Face, but Tide of Wrath Rolls on -Official Explanation of Pro-British Talk Derided -Hostility to England.

Special Cable Despatches to THE SUN. Beelin, Oct. 31.-The storm of popular ndignation over the Kaiser's amazing interview published in London culminated to-day in Prince von Buelow's tender of his resignation as Imperial Chancellor. The Emperor positively declined to socent it.

This news was accompanied by an official statement purporting to give the genesis of the famous utterance now renerally known as the "calculated indiscretion." The statement was published in the Norddeutsche Allegemeine Zeitung this afternoon.

It opened by saying that it was wrong to suppose that the Kaiser's interview in the London Daily Telegraph was published without reference to or foreknowledge of those responsible for the policy of the empire.

His Majesty received from an Englishman of private rank, it is said, a request for permission to publish the manuscript of an article containing the substance of a number of conversations the Kaiser had at various times with different English personages. The object of the request was said to be a desire to make the Kaiser's utterances known to a large number of utterances known to a large number of understood by the American people and English readers in order to render good the lines are drawn. I have no fear, no service to the relations of England and Germany.

. The Kaiser sent the article to the Chancellor, it is declared, and the Chancellor forwarded it to the Foreign Office. After a careful examination publication fol-lowed, no objection having been raised by the Foreign Office.

When the Chancellor became aware of the contents of the article by reading of first class, high priced brains—backed it in the Daily Telegraph he stated to the not by a barrel but by a hogshead, and is Kaiser that he himself had not read the article in manuscript, otherwise he would have advised against its publication. At the same time, it is said, he offered his resignation to the Kaiser, who refused to accept it. The Kaiser, it is explained, agreed to the publication of this statenent "as a means of protecting hims the Kaiser) from unjustified attacks. Later to-day the Foreign Office issued

The Chancellor sent instructions to the Foreign Office to have the article carefully examined as to its suitability for publication and returned with a report. The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and the head of the press bureau were not present and a diplomatist who read it found the communication all right and sent it back to Nordeney.

"Here one of the Chancellor's se taries failed to draw his attention to the important nature of the article and the Foreign Office report. The Chancellor initialled it like an ordinary document and so the manuscript came back to the hands of the English private gentleman with the remark that the Kaiser had no objection to its publication.

MURPHY GETS FIGURES IN. But Won't Give Them Out-Estimates Sald to Be 90,000 for Bryan.

The executive committee of Tammar Hall met yesterday to receive from the district leaders their reports on the can-vasses they had made in their dis-tricts. All of the leaders handed in their estimates, but after Charles F. Murphy had glanced through them he refus to give out his usual Saturday night before election forecast. He said that he might have some figures to give out to-day, but that before committing himself to any opinion as to what h thought the Bryan and Chanler plurali ties in this city might be he wished to study the reports.

One of the officials of the Tammany organization and one who saw the re ports said that from a hasty totalling of the figures which had been submitted the plurality estimated for Bryan in the county was about 90,000, which would be three times the plurality Bryan got in 1900. He added that he had not had an opportunity to reckon up the Chanler figures, but that he thought that they were far shead of Bryan's.

FOUR MASKED MEN RAID LAW-YER SHAY'S HOME.

Strikes Shay's Mother-in-Law With a Bevolver and Her Husband Starts a Fight-Leisurely Job With Conversational Diversions and Little Lost.

Four masked men broke into the hom Joseph Shay, one of the lawyers for the Hains brothers, at Cedarhurst, L. I. soon after midnight yesterday morning. Mrs. Lena Hamburger, Mr. Shay's motherin-law, had her jaw broken by being hit with the butt end of a revolver. the members of the family were held at revolvers' ends for nearly an hour while the burglars looked over the house for valuables. They got $40 in money from Mr. Shay and a quantity of jewelry.

Strange men were seen in the town Friday evening corresponding to the burgiars. There have been several other robberies in Cedarhurst recently and Mr. Shay said that a vigilance committee had been organized yesterday and began watch last night.

Mr. Shay was awakened by a scream from the room of his mother-in-law. Both he and his wife ran toward the room, which is on the second floor of the house He saw a man standing over Mrs. Hamburger. Shay grabbed the receiver of a telephone near by. A man shoved a revolver in his face and said quietly: What are you doing that for? The vires are out The invader, like his companions, had a black mask over his face, such as is used at fancy dress balls, and a hand electric

Shay said that he had no jewels and saked them if they would leave provid-ing he gave up his money. The man consented and he handed over the $40. Then the invader asked for Shay's watch. "I haven't got a watch. It is at the jeweller's, and Thave just been wondering what time it is." Shay answered. "It's just a little after 1 o'clock."

the reply. Pretty soon another man with a re volver joined the two. There was a scream again from Mrs. Hamburger. She had refused to do the bidding of the man with the revolver and he had hit her on the jaw.

"Now if you don't shut up I'll put bullet in you!" he warned. "What kind of men are you into a man's house like this?" Shay said the burglar. A fight followed.

The men with Shay called off the burglar who was wrestling with Mr. Hamburger. and the latter, seeing the situation started to yelling, but was quieted The Shay house is located at the corner of Broadway and Spruce avenue and stands well back in the lot, otherwise the shouting would have awakened the neighbors. Shay continued talking with his captors and begged them to leave. They told him that they would in a few minutes, easy place to burglarize and that they would probably remain in that vicinity for a time. Shay offered to escort the men to the door and let them out. "We will get out the way we got in," was the answer. "And don't you follow us out to notify the police, because we have got men stationed in the bushes with revolvers just to pick off busy ones." The men had jimmied the front door to get into the house and they left through that door. During the latter part of their stay in the house one of the burglars evidently lost his nerve and tried to desert h companions. It wasn't exactly a duplicate sound money parade of 1800, who Fifth avenue on the Saturday be election day just to emphe oudiation of Bryan and all his wave for all that yesterday's business parade, engineered and executed precisely the same object in view, something decidedly worth thinking a and worth looking at.

Even if the parade of yesterday smaller than the one of twelve years it's something of an achieveme at from one point of view, to have 55 their time marching around the stre the busiest city in the world just to how much they don't like you, and the what Bryan has accomplished. The parade was reviewed by

S. Sherman, Republican candidate for the Vice-Presidency, and by Secre of State Elihu Root, who, with Ernest Stires of St. Thomas's Church will interval for luncheon, sat all day long pavilion awning near the Worth nent in the Republican counsels of reading and that her personal estate was oity and the State. Some forty-thr probably small, as she had received only divisions tramped uptown through the whole length of Fifth avenue as far Fortieth street, where the marchers work.
